#VoteKids: Join AAP’s Get Out the Vote Campaign this Election Season

Children can’t vote, but we can! The American Academy of Pediatrics (AAP) recently launched its Get Out the Vote campaign, #VoteKids, with the goal of making children a meaningful part of the election conversation and encouraging all who advocate for children to vote with their needs in mind. The campaign offers a portal of tools and resources to help raise awareness about why it’s important to #VoteKids, including a social media toolkit and a social media banner you can add to your profile pictures through Election Day on Nov. 8. These resources and more are all available now on aap.org/votekids. Leading up to the election, the AAP will continue to share new campaign updates and resources on its #VoteKids website.
